

Listeners, Romans, Countrymen, lend me your ear. Just a quick note to all of you, I'm thinking that I can post this as a .pdf, and it will show up in iTunes? We'll see. I had intended to put out Show 88 last night, but I ran into some hardware, routing problems. So, after 3 hours of trying to figure it out, I called it quits at 3 in the morning. I was having an issue with the ASIO settings in Ableton Live 5.2. I did figure it out though. When I get home from school (UAA) I'll whip it out. (Stop giggling)

I had a new video posted for about 2 hours a couple of days ago. Maybe some of your aggregators caught it. After thinking about the reaction of my wife, and possibly upsetting some viewers, I decided to take it down. I will post it again, but I want to talk about it first. Number one, I love animals, and would never dream of harming any. This 1.5 minute video is entitled "Uncomfortable Moment #1". It makes you think for a brief second, that our cat Mr. Benny, is going to get hurt. Trust me he doesn't. We take such good care of our animals (family). The video was just made to show the power of 1.5 minutes of video making you feel a little weird. The music and scoring was done by me, and I'm actually quite proud of it. I'm sure everyone will enjoy it. I just wanted to assure everyone that it is just a video, not fact, not a documentary.

Thanks to everyone who has "pinned" my map: Tony, Mark, Jason, Mystiee!, Chaz, Rob, Anouska, John, David, Dionne. If you haven't yet signed it, please, if you have a minute, check it out. You are welcome to sign more than once, twice, or however may you want. Don't forget to embed a link to your site, blog, podcast, flickr page, myspace, etc.

Thanks for all the emails, pinups, and support
